

Ann Kemp Wall Mural

Mural artist Ann Kemp gets a helping hand from sons Calkun, 11, and Connor, 8. PHOTO: [unreadable]

Palings panoply

ARTIST Ann Kemp has created a welcome detour at a Forest Hill aged-care home and retirement village.

Kemp's mural on a 20m-long fence at Strathdon Community has residents, staff and visitors walking out of their way to admire her handiwork.

Kemp donated hundreds of hours of her time to create the mural, which features a landscape of trees, flowers, sky and mountains. Strathdon Community's auxiliary, including Kemp's mother and Strathdon resident Margaret Kemp, raised money to buy the materials needed to create the mural.

"The mural fits in with the theme of nearby gardens, which are English country-style gardens," Kemp said.

"It includes the pet therapy animals, Rex the dog and Bella, their cat. It was an ugly fence, but now it has been transformed."

“The mural fits in with the theme of nearby gardens, which are English country-style gardens.”

ANNE KEMP

Whitehorse Leader, July 6, 2005

Ann Kemp, a professional artist, has volunteered many, many hours at Strathdon painting a beautiful mural on an otherwise long, plain fence. Ann has managed to incorporate many aspects of Strathdon into her painting. People specially take a walk past the mural as it is so inspiring. Ann's children have assisted with painting as has one of our Hostel residents. Thank you to Strathdon Foothills Auxiliary for donating the paint.

Ann Kemp, mural artist

Ann Kemp with a Strathdon resident painting the mural.

Palings panoply

Whitehorse Leader, July 6, 2005

Artist Anne Kemp has created a welcome detour at a Forest Hill aged-care home and retirement village.

Kemp's mural on a 20m-long fence at Strathdon Community has residents, staff and visitors walking out of their way to admire her handiwork.

Kemp donated hundreds of hours of her time to create the mural, which features a landscape of trees, flowers, sky and mountains. Strathdon Community's auxiliary, including Kemp's mother and Strathdon resident Margaret Kemp, raised money to buy the materials needed to create the mural.

"The mural fits in with the theme of nearby gardens, which are English country-style gardens," Kemp said. "It includes the pet therapy animals, Rex the dog and Bella, their cat. It was an ugly fence, but it now has been transformed."